For 20 Years

This firm has bought and sold shoes and possibly have handled more shoes than any other firm in Southern Wisconsin. We have handled many lines of shoes in the past, and now offer to our trade only shoes which have proven merit.

We have believed in selling our trade shoes that would make them want to come back for another pair
"just like those I have on"
and it is remarkable how often we hear it. A good shoe is the first requisite; a good fit is necessary to the satisfaction of the wearer.

We are making a special study of shoe fitting and our 20 years' experience has taught us which shoes give most satisfaction.

Come here for your next pair and we will fit your feet perfectly and give you a shoe best adapted for the wear you will give it.
Whether it be a walking boot, a work shoe or a dainty party alliger, you will find your particular shoe in our immense assortment.

for it in style, quality of leather and workmanship.

ARE NOW PLANNED

EVANSVILLE WILL HAVE REPUB-LICAN SPEECHES ON THE 29TH.

MUCH ENTHUSIASM SHOWN

Many Meetings to be Held in the Country Districts—Ramp May Speak in Janesville.

Apathetic as the campaign has appeared up to this time the republicans of Rock county have now become thoroughly enthused over the question of national politics and between now and election day meetings will be held in every town hall and several in the four cities of the county. Both County Chairman McNamara and Secretary
Ray Clarke of the republican county committee are arranging dates and securing speakers to meet the demands for more information on the questions at issue.

Evansville's Plans.
On Thursday evening October 22nd Prof. A. H. Shultz will speak at the Majestic Opera House in Evansville and there will be a closing rally there November 2, the night before election, the speaker for which has not yet been named. There is a possibility that Harriet M. Rump, the president of the Taff Sherman club of Deloit will also be asked to address the workingmen of Evansville before the campaign closes.

Janesville's Plans.
Chairman McNamara will try and secure several speakers for a rally here the coming week. Mr. Rump, whose address in Deloit on Tuesday night was so well received, will be asked to be one of the speakers and William H. Dougherty, the former democrat, who is supporting Taff because he believes he is the best man for the place may be another. The meeting will be held in either the court house or the city hall. There will also be a closing rally on election eve at the Majestic theatre.

Tonight's Meetings.
This evening there is a meeting in the Harmony town hall at which John L. Fisher and Ray W. Clarke will be the speakers. Newark is also to have a meeting tonight with Charles Homingway and H. W. Adams as the speakers, and Arthur Fisher speaks at Luna.

Tomorrow evening J. L.
Fisher and William Dougherty speak at Johnston Center and on the twenty-fourth at Hanover.

Arranging Plans.

Secretary Ray Clarke is arranging his program for the coming week as fast as possible and it is possible that M. G. Joffis and Senator Whitehead will be heard twice more before the campaign closes. Demands for meetings are far in the excess of the speakers available as the national committee has taken many of Wisconsin's orators for work in other states.

"CHET" BREWER IS GIVEN DUE CREDIT

Former Janesville Resident's Football Team Held Michigan to Nothing to Nothing Score.

Chester L. Brewer, a former resident of Janesville and a star athlete, while in the high school here and later at the university, at present Allstate Coach at the Michigan Agricultural College, at Lansing, is being given considerable prominence in the athletic world owing to the fact that his team held the famous Yost machine down to a nothing to nothing score, in a recent game. Mr. Brewer was one of the most prominent athletes at the university of Wisconsin, while a student there, played on both football and base ball teams and was a track man of note. His advent as instructor of athletes at Michigan Agricultural college has been followed by a series of signal successes for the team he has handled in past years and his record

This fall in holding the famous university of Michigan team down to a remarkable by football experts the country over. Mr. Brewer is a brother of Burns Brewer of this city and a son of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Brewer.

WILL PLAY BELOIT
ON NEXT SATURDAY

High School Football Team Continue to Practice at Six in the Morning.

Next Saturday the foot ball team from the Janesville high school will play the eleven from the Beloit high school in that city. The team are being coached by E. E. Birch of the Y.
M. C. A. A number of new trick plays and strategic foot ball tactics is being drilled into the team and it is hoped that they will make a better showing next Saturday than they did last week.

The team this year has been seriously hampered by the sickness of their coach Prof. Vignam, parental opposition and the lack of interest displayed by the students of the high school. Several players were forced to leave the game on account of the wisdom of the parents. The chief difficulty has been the lack of interest.
Hardly ever has a full team been out to practice and there has been little or no chances for scrimmage work.

The team this week has been lined up as follows: T. Tippett, qb; S.
Campbell, rb; E. Tippett, lb; Owen, qb; G. Robinson, re; V. Merrill, lc;
Randall, re; Wilkinson, rt; Saffor, lc;
Kennedy, lb; Shauman, c. The team will average about 140 pounds.

held in Wausau. Arrangements have been made for a temperance rally to be held in the city hall on October 26, when Mrs. L. E. Sawyer will deliver a lecture on temperance to which the public are cordially invited.

At Wednesday's meeting the different departments of the work were taken up and five new members were

BRYAN DRAWS BIG CROWDS IN OHIO

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE TALKS ALL DAY TO BUCKEYES.

HIS NEW BASIS OF ATTACK

Scores Alleged Attempt to Coerce Railroad Employees—Republican Chairman Hitchcock Confident of Taft's Success.

Marion, O., Oct. 22.—Monster crowds and lusty cheering was Ohio's greeting to William J. Bryan Wednesday. Just before the Democratic candidate passed over the line into West Virginia late at night he expressed himself as exceedingly well pleased with the reception accorded him in the native state of his Republican opponent.

Although the day was a hard one for him, Mr. Bryan exhibited no signs of fatigue. Inspired by the fact that he literally was carrying his warfare into the camp of his political enemy, he spoke with a vigor and confidence that even those who have been constantly with him throughout the campaign could not help but note.

Bryan Finds a "New Menace."

While still in bed Wednesday morning a newspaper was handed him by his stenographer and Mrs. Bryan read to him a dispatch stating that the New York Central railroad system was threatening its employees with a reduction in wages if he was elected, but promising an increase in work and wages if he was defeated. This was his cue for the day and he fired broadside after broadside into the Republicans for their alleged campaign tactics.

He regarded the action of the railroad company as a "new menace," and declared that "the little ward heeler who goes around and bribes a man with five dollars is a moral character beside the man who attempts to use his power to threaten those who work for him and to buy them by a promise of increase or threaten by a promise of a decrease."

Chairman Hitchcock Confident.

New York, Oct. 22.—On the eve of his last campaign visit to Chicago, where he will remain two days, Chairman Frank H. Hitchcock of the Republican national committee expressed himself more confidently than he has at any time since he assumed the management of the Republican campaign.

He declared Wednesday that New York was absolutely safe for the national and state tickets and added that he was confident that California, Oregon and Washington would give large Republican pluralities. He was satisfied also, he said, with conditions in Colorado, Nebraska and Kansas, and he thought Montana was safely Republican though he did not look for any overwhelming pluralities in that state. As to Missouri, Kentucky and Maryland, he regarded the last-named state as surely Republican, and in the other two he thought there was a fighting chance.

Herrick Says Ohio Is Taft's.

Former Gov. Myron T. Herrick of Ohio visited Republican national headquarters and gave the reasons for his assurance of the success of the Republican national and state tickets in his state. He admitted that in a few localities the party might lose representatives in congress. If so, it would be because of a local fight which would not influence the state or national contest. The legislature he regarded as certainly Republican. Concerning the attitude of Senator Foraker, ex-Gov. Herrick said:

"Of course he is inactive, but he is too good a Republican and too good a citizen and too good an Ohioan to even wish for Bryan's election."

N. W. BUNKER AGAIN LEADS

John Fisher Forced Out Of The Lead After Holding It Two Days. Mrs. Emma Malbon and Mrs. U. C. Miller Retain Their Positions But Are Closely Pressed For The Honors By Mrs. Fred Blakeley and Mrs. Chas. Kilmer. Chas. Tailman and Ed. Fleming Forge To The Front. Arthur Jones Holds His Own.

Are You Voting? If Not, Get Busy. The Gazette To Say Who Shall Make The Trip To Europe And Wear The Diamonds And Watches. Have You A Friend In The List?

No one has up to this time, a sufficient number of votes to justify them in picking their trunk for the trip. The new candidates who entered the contest yesterday—the last hour that they could get in—are just as likely to win the great European tour or diamond ring or gold watch as any of the early starters. It is still anybody's race.

"Oh, it's too late for me to do anything now," said a disheartened candidate yesterday. "I'm going to try to win a gold watch, but goodness gracious, I never could overtake any of those people who have over 40,000 votes."

Well, this was a sort of a poser for the contest man and so he "guessed" so too. It was plain to him that a contestant who would give up the fight because some one else had forty or fifty thousand votes, was not the candidate for this race. Fifty thousand votes means just ten new yearly subscriptions and if any contestant thinks they are going to win a trip to Europe or a handsome diamond by turning in $50 worth of business, that contestant is slated for a very rude and a somewhat sudden awakening.

"No chance!" In a nutshell, that's always the talk of the quitter. People who are made of the right material do not make excuses; they work. They do not complain about the advantages of someone else; they hustle and keep gradually forging to the front.

The "no chance" fellow simply confesses his weakness—his lack of ability. He shows he is not equal to the occasion—that he is not greater than the obstacle that confronts him.

"No chance" is ever the blurt of the failure in life. Interview any one, or all of the vast army of failures, and he will tell you that he has never had a chance; that other men always had greater opportunities than himself; that he was always handicapped in a hundred ways. He is always busy but never doing anything. Some people, and everybody has friends of that kind, have that waiting-for-a-chance habit developed to such a point that it is stronger than the law of self preservation and that is commonly accepted as the first law.

You'll usually find the energy and inclination for hard work coming out of the fellow who is always waiting for a chance. Opportunity is a rather queer thing. It always becomes invisible to those who are doing nothing, or are looking somewhere else for it. It's as elusive as perpetual motion, or a rainbow; you never quite catch it. It is usually the greatest worker, the man with a mind alert for chances, who sees them first.

The majority of men make their own opportunities, but here is one ready to your hand. It requires nothing more than a little concentrated, conventional, honest, earnest effort. There are always more people who see opportunities, than there are those who both see and seize them. They never seem to have the courage or confidence in their own power to take advantage of them. They do not form a purpose until another has grabbed and improved the opportunity.

Get busy and make a tour of Europe.

THIS WEEK'S BONUS VOTE OFFER

A certificate for 8,000 votes will be given with every "club" of five yearly subscriptions, either "old" or "new," and 4,000 votes with every "club" of five six months' subscriptions, either old or new, turned in by next Monday, Oct. 26th, at 9 P. M. Two "new" Weekly subscriptions for one year will count as one Daily in making up a "club." This bonus vote is given in addition to the regular certificate of votes issued on each payment of a subscription. Don't fail to get a club or two this week.

tainly should be changed. Wisconsin leads in most progressive things and it is a pity to our state pride that it is the laggard in the matter of roads.

"But we hope to see this changed. An amendment to the constitution will be submitted this fall making it possible for our state to join the procession of states giving aid for roads. If the voters do what they should there will be such an overwhelming vote in favor of the amendment that our next legislature will see the necessity of doing all it can to put Wisconsin in the lead.

"The danger is great, however, that on the long ballots that will confront the voters, they will forget the obscure amendments at the bottom of the sheet. 'No a string to your finger so you won't be one of those to forget.'

Of the eight amendments to the constitution to be voted on at the coming election, the good roads proposition is the most important.

BRYAN THE BOGEY MAN

Mr. Bryan's favorite role in the campaigns of 1896 and 1900 was that of the prophet of evil. He was a veritable "bogy man," and it was his special delight to "throw a scare" into the people. His skill in that line is shown in the following extract from one of his speeches in 1896:

"If McKinley and the republican party are successful and put in power for the next four years, wages will be decreased, hard times will come upon us, and over the land the price of wheat will go down and the price of gold will go up; mortgages on our home will be foreclosed by the money lenders; shops and factories will close. We will export no goods and we will import from foreign lands all the goods we use; thus will ruin, want and misery be with us."

Not one of the prophecies contained in that bulky wholesale package was fulfilled. They were flatly refuted, every blessed one of them, by events, and the dismal croaker who uttered them was branded as a bogus prophet and the most incompetent forecaster of future conditions that ever figured in American politics.

Following the defeat of the free-silver conspiracy wages increased instead of decreasing. Good times, not hard times, came to the country. Wheat rose in price instead of falling. Shops and factories long idle resumed active operations. American exports increased enormously and the "ruin, want and misery" so gloomily predicted by the Nebraska "bogy man" never got beyond the confines of his own superheated imagination.

The same old "bogy man" is still doing business at the old stand and his stock of dreadful prophecies, while somewhat musty and shopworn, is as varied and showy as ever. He is prepared to "throw a scare" into the people at any hour, day or night. But business is dull in the prophecy shop. The people refuse to be scared. They know that Bryan is a pretender and a sham who has never been able to forecast the future with regard to any important public question. Knowing him as they do, sane Americans are perfectly willing that he should make a continuous performance of himself as the croaking "bogy man," but if he thinks for one moment that they are taking him seriously he is guilty of the grossest self-deception.

The object of a fire alarm system, in the schools, is to cultivate an orderly and safe retreat in case of sudden and unexpected danger. Some of the teachers seem to be impressed with the notion that if a fire breaks out in the building that a still alarm will notify them five minutes in advance, and so, in drilling, the children are notified to get ready for the drill. If the emergency ever comes, there won't be much time for preliminaries.

The primary law is alright, so long as it works to the satisfaction of its admirers, but all wrong when results are against them. This is the decision of Speaker Elorn, and the senior senator seems to be of the same opinion as he is on his way to Trempealeau county to help his friend in his race for the assembly as an independent candidate.

The political fight in Ohio and Indiana, as on local and state issues, and while demoralizing, will not result in the defeat of the republican national ticket. State pride in Ohio will do much for Taft, and Indiana is naturally republican. Both states are well organized, as neither one is yet cursed by the primary law.

A free pass to the White House, during Bryan's administration, if elected, is the latest inducement offered railroad men for support. It might be well for them to remember that visiting at the capitol would become monotonous after months of enforced idleness. Better stay by the job.

Concrete hummocks a foot high, and located within 150 feet of grade crossings, is the latest safety device on Long Island for the protection of automobilists. Nothing but a hummock checks the speed of the speed-maniac, and grade crossings have been the scene of many bad accidents.

The rural mail service now delivers mail to 26,000,000 people. The carriers travel daily about 900,000 miles, and their salaries amount to $29,000,000. This is one of the items which add to government expenses, yet no complaint is offered, because so many people are benefited.

VETERANS GATHERED FOR ANNIVERSARY

G. A. R. and W. R. C. Celebrate Establishment of W. H. Sargent Post No. 28.

Last evening in the post hall the members of the W. H. Sargent Post No. 28, G. A. R., celebrated the anniversary of the organization of the post 28 years ago. Over a hundred were present to enjoy the program and the social evening which followed. The program began with the singing of a hymn by the post quartet, after which Post Chaplain George Vinney offered a prayer. The roll call of the members of the post since its foundation was given by S. C. Burnham. As the roll was called those who were present answered to their names and the list of the members who had died was given. There have been 229 members since the organization of the post, of whom 100 are now members, 108 have died and the rest have moved away or are unaccounted for.

S. C. Cobb, the first commander, in an interesting talk, told of the organization of the post and the main incidents in its history. Mrs. A. M. Glenn, president of the Woman's Relief Corps, then told of the foundation of that body about thirteen years ago and of its history.

The remainder of the evening was spent in a social good time.

One Day Only, Friday, Oct. 23rd, At 8 O'clock

CLEAN YOUR TEETH

It is really a matter of your own good. Teeth should be cleaned after every meal with water and brush at least, and before retiring some good dental powder should be used.

Let me tell you the reason for this: The temperature inside of your mouth is 98½ degrees.

You know that always after eating, there are particles of food left in between the teeth and cavities.

Just imagine how long vegetable matter would keep from rotting if laid in the sun on a moist day in 48 degrees of heat.

Not long, would it?

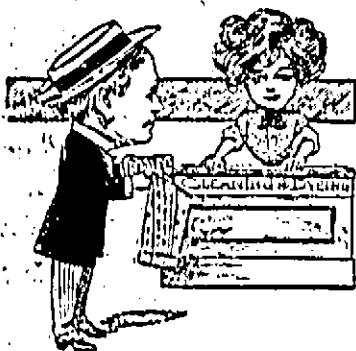

Yet this same condition exists in your mouth all the time.

Your teeth should be in perfect order, and always kept clean, if you wish to keep them long.

Call in at my office any day, and let me look at your mouth, and tell you the condition of your teeth. You need not feel obligated to have the work done at once.

BUSY NIGHT FOR SAFE-CRACKERS

OPENED STRONG-BOX IN ROTSTEIN BROS.' OFFICE

ALSO VISITED FAIR STORE

And Tried to Take Door to Wilbur Carle's Safe Off the Hinges—Got but Little Plunder.

Safe-crackers—evidently amateurs in the business—again visited Alderman Wilbur Carle's store on South River street during the early morning and also made a call at the office of Rotstein Bros. junk establishment, a few doors to the southwest. A monkey was at all probability used to open the outer door of the Rotstein place and the sheet-iron door of the safe, which locks with a single bolt, was opened by driving a small iron cylinder through the key-hole. No large sum of money is ever kept in this strong-box and the burglars secured only $1.15 in change and a check on the Bower City bank for the sum of $3.08, drawn in favor of the firm of D. Lewin. The door leading from the office to the junk-room was locked with a padlock and staple. A single sharp blow with a hammer or weight probably sufficed to break off the staple and the crackers, apparently made their exit from the rear of the building, as the gate leading into the backyard was found open when the work of the day was commenced this forenoon.

Carle Safe Badly Battered
When William Mohr, who has charge of the butcher-shop in the Fair store, arrived there to open up for business this morning he found that his cash-drawer had been forced and relieved of a few pennies he had left there the previous evening. He and Will Richter, another employee, at once made an investigation. They discovered that the inside bars had been removed from the rear door nearest the butcher shop and that a desperate effort had been made to open the safe in the front office. The revolving disk and indicator which governs the tumblers had been beaten off with a heavy monkey-wrench which was left on the floor nearby; the knob which throws the bolts had also been hammered; and the caps had been removed from the hinges on which the safe-door swings. It is hardly likely that the burglars either accomplished their mission by this method and threw the lock again, or worked the combination and then battered the outer portion of the mechanism to pieces to baffie those who should subsequently conduct the investigation, but this will not be known for a certainty until W. W. Wilke or someone else succeeds in getting the door open. Since the night of October 9 when the safe was opened in mysterious fashion, without any force being employed, and $110 taken from the cash drawer, Mr. Carle has kept but little money there. He had also changed the combination.

Got in Through Roof?
There are indications to show that entrance was effected through a skylight opening onto the roof, but the officers are not entirely satisfied with them. There are two wooden barricades and the outer one was nailed to the roof and hooked from the inside. If the hooks were in place, and the management of the store is quite certain on this score, they were all engaged in some fashion when pulling out the eyes or staples when the cover was moved off. The marks of the pry-bar are also of such a character as to give some support to a theory that the work was done from the inside. However, it would have been easy to reach the roof, in question, by climbing from the rear stairway of one of the one-story buildings adjoining the Hong Loee laundry. Officer William Mason, who passed through the alley back of the Carle store at four o'clock this morning, examined the premises carefully and saw nothing to arouse suspicion. The Messrs. Rotstein believe that the monkey-wrench which was found in the Carle store was taken from their junk and tool room.

The Younger Set

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS,
Author of "The Fighting Chance," Etc.

Copyright, 1907, by Robert W. Chambers

"He stood up, gathering together the mail matter which his secretary had already opened for his attention. There was plenty of time yet. Their lenses were renewed the first of this year, and they'll run the year out. But it's something to think about. Will you talk to Gerald, or shall I?"

"No," said Selwyn. "I'll think the matter over and give you my opinion. May I speak to my brother-in-law about it?"

"Neergard turned in his tracks and looked almost at him.

"Do you think there's any chance of his financing the thing?"

"I haven't the slightest idea of what he might do, especially," he hesitated, "as you never have had any loans from his people, I understand."

"No," said Neergard. "I haven't."

"I'd rather out of their usual, I believe."

"So they say. But Long Island across needn't beg favors now. That's all over, Captain Selwyn. Fane, Harmon & Co. know that. Mr. Gerard ought to know it too."

Selwyn looked troubled. "Shall I consult Mr. Gerard?" he repeated. "I should like to if you have no objection."

"Neergard's small, close-set eyes were focused on a spot just beyond Selwyn's left shoulder.

"Suppose you sound him," he suggested. "In strictest confidence."

"Naturally," cut in Selwyn dryly and, turning to his left, he opened the first letter he had encountered.

Now that his head was turned, Neergard looked full at the back of his neck for a long minute, then went out silently.

That night Selwyn stopped at his sister's house before going to his own room, and finding Austin alone in the library, laid the matter before him exactly as Neergard had put it.

"You see," he added, "that I'm a sort of an about business methods. This furtive pouncing on a thing and clubbing other people's money out of them with it—this slyly acquiring land that is necessary to an unsuspicious neighbor and then holding him up—I don't like. There's always something of this sort that prevents my cordial co-operation with Neergard—always something in the schemes which hints of—of squeezing—or something underground."

"Like the water which he's going to squeeze out of the walls?"

Selwyn laughed. "Phil," said his brother-in-law, "if you think anybody can do a profitable business except at other people's expense you are an ass."

"Am I?" asked Selwyn, still laughing frankly.

"Certainly. The land is there plain enough for anybody to see. It's always been there. It's likely to remain for a few years, I fancy."

"Now, along comes Meyneher Julius Neergard, the only man who seems to have brains enough to see the present value of that parcel to the Sloewitha people. Everybody else had the same chance. Nobody except Neergard knew enough to take it. Why shouldn't he profit by it?"

"Yes, but if he'd be satisfied to cut it up into lots and do what he felt—"

"Cut it up into nothing! Man alive, do you suppose that Sloewitha people would let him? They've only a few thousand acres. They've got to control that land. What good is their club without it? Do you imagine they'd let a town grow up on three sides of their precious game preserve? And, besides, I'll bet you that half of their eyes and paws in one's back and limbs. Please do let us have a party."

So Selwyn went to the telephone and presently returned, saying that Boots was overwhelmed and would be present at the festivities, and Drina, enraptured, ordered flowers to be brought from the dining room and a large table set for four, with particular pomp and circumstance.

Mr. Archibald Lansing arrived very promptly, a short, stocky young man of clean and powerful build, with dark, keen eyes always alert and humorous lips over on the edge of laughter under his dark mustache.

His manner with Drina was always delightful, a mixture of self-repressed idleness and badly naïve belief in a thorough understanding between them to exclude Selwyn from their company.

"This Selwyn fellow here?" he exclaimed. "I warned him over the phone we'd not tolerate him, Drina. I explained to him very carefully that you and I were dining together in strictest privacy."

"He begged so hard," said Eileen. "Will somebody place an extra pillow for Drina?"

They seized the same pillow fiercely, confronting each other; missinero appeared imminent.

"Two pillows," said Drina sweetly, and extermination was averted. The child laughed happily, covering one of Boots' hands with both of hers.

"So you've left the service, Mr. Lansing?" began Eileen, lying back and looking smilingly at Boots.

"And to Miss Eroll. Seven millionaires ran into my quarters and chased me out and down Broadway into the offices of the Westchester Air Line company. Then these seven merciless millionaires in black and bound and gagged me, stuffed my pockets full of salary and forced me to type-write a fearful and secret oath to serve them for five long, weary years. That's a sample of how the wealthy grind the bones of the poor, isn't it, Drina?"

The child slipped her hand from his, smiling uncertainly.

"You don't mean all that, do you?"

"Indeed, I do, sweetheart."

"Are you not a soldier lieutenant any more, then?" she inquired, horribly disappointed.

"Only a private in the workman's battalion, Drina."

"I don't care," retorted the child obstinately. "I like you just as much."

"How tall you're growing, Drina," remarked Selwyn.

"Probably the early spring weather," added Boots. "You're twelve, aren't you?"

"Thirteen," said Drina gravely.

"Almost too close with me," nodded Boots.

"I'll do it now," she said—"as soon as my new gowns are made—if you'll take me to Manila. Will you? I believe my Aunt Alice is there?"

She caught Eileen's eye and stopped short. "I forgot," she murmured. "I beg your pardon, Uncle Philip."

Boots was talking very fast and laughing a great deal. Eileen's photo claimed her undivided attention. Selwyn quietly finished his chair. The child looked at them all.

"By the way," said Boots abruptly, "what's the matter with Gerald? He came in before noon looking very woody."

Selwyn glanced up quickly. "Wasn't he at the office?" asked Eileen anxiously.

"Oh, yes," replied Selwyn. "He felt a trifle under the weather, so I sent him home."

"Is it the grip?"

"No, I believe not."

"Do you think he had better have a doctor? Where is he?"

"He was here," observed Drina composedly, "and father was angry with him."

"What?" exclaimed Eileen. "When?"

"This morning before father went downtown."

Both Selwyn and Lansing cut in coolly, dismissing the matter with a careless word or two, and coffee was served, candle tea in Drina's case.

"Come on," said Boots, slipping a bride rose into Drina's curls. "I'm ready for confidences."

"Confidences" had become an established custom with Drina and Boots. It meant that every time they saw one another they were pledged to tell each other everything that had occurred in their lives since their last meeting.

So Drina, excitedly requesting to be excused, jumped up and, taking Lansing's hand in hers, led him to a sofa in a distant corner, where they immediately installed themselves and began an earnest and whispered exchange of confidences, punctuated by little whirlwinds of laughter from the child.

Speed of Rivers.

The river is said to be strongest when it flows at the rate of one mile an hour, ordinarily swift two miles an hour, very rapid five miles an hour, a torrent six miles an hour.

"All O. K. again?" he inquired, retreating Eileen's hand in his.

"Thank you—quite. Are you really going to dine with us? Are you sure you want to? Oh, I know you're giving on some very gay dinner somewhere."

"I was going to dine with Boots when Nina rescued me. Poor Boots! I think I'll telephone."

"Telephone him to come here!" begged Drina. "Would he come? Oh, please—I'd love to have him."

"I wish you would ask him," said Eileen. "It's been so lonely and stupid

They discussed Neergard's scheme for a little while longer. Austin, shrewd and cautious, declined any personal part in the financing of the deal, although he admitted the probability of prospective profits.

"Our investments and our loans are of a different character," he explained, "but I have no doubt that Fane, Harmon & Co."

"Why, both Fane and Harmon are members of the club," laughed Selwyn. "You don't expect Neergard to go to them?"

A peculiar expression flickered in Neergard's heavy features. Perhaps he thought that Fane and Harmon and Jack Huthven were not above exploiting their own club under certain circumstances; but, whatever his opinion, he said nothing further and, suggesting that Selwyn remain to dine, went off to dress.

A few moments later he returned, crestfallen and conciliatory.

"I forgot Nina and I are dining at the Orchids. Come up a moment. She wants to speak to you."

So they took the rose tinted rooco elevator. Austin went away to his own quarters, and Selwyn tapped at Nina's boudoir.

"Is that you, Phil? One minute. Watson is finishing his hair. Come in now and kindly keep your distance, my friend. Do you suppose I want him around to know what brand of varnish I use?"

"Roumdundy?" he repeated, with a good humored shrug. "It's likely, isn't it?"

"Certainly it's likely. You'd never know you were telling her anything, but she'd extract every detail in ten seconds. I understand she adores you, Phil. Eileen is furious at being left here all alone. She's practically well, and she's to dine with Drina in the library. Would you be good enough to dine there with them? Eileen, poor child, is heartily sick of her imprisonment. It would be a mercy, Phil."

"Why, yes, I'll do it, of course, only I've some matters at home."

"Home! You call those stuffy, smoky, impossible, half-furnished rooms home? Phil, when are you ever going to get some pretty furniture and art things? Eileen and I have been talking it over, and we've decided to go there and see what you need and then order it, whether you like it or not."

"Thanks," he said, laughing. "It's just what I've tried to avoid. I've got things where I want them now, but I know it was too comfortable to last. Boots said that some woman would be sure to be good to me with an art nouveau rocking chair."

"A perfect sample of man's gratitude," said Nina, exasperated, "for I've ordered two beautiful art nouveau rocking chairs, one for you and one for Mr. Lansing. Now you can go and humiliate poor little Eileen, who took so much pleasure in planning with me for your comfort. As for your friend Boots, he's unspeakable—with my compliments."

Selwyn stayed until he made peace with his sister, then he mounted to the nursery to "lean over" the younger children and provide at prayers. This being accomplished, he descended to the library, where Eileen Eroll in a flimsy, lace clouded gown, full of turquoise tints, reclined with her arm around Drina amid heaps of cushions, watching the waitress prepare a table for two.

He took the fresh, cool hand she extended and sat down on the edge of her couch.

"All O. K. again?" he inquired, retreating Eileen's hand in his.

"Thank you—quite. Are you really going to dine with us? Are you sure you want to? Oh, I know you're giving on some very gay dinner somewhere."

"I was going to dine with Boots when Nina rescued me. Poor Boots! I think I'll telephone."

"I wish you would ask him," said Eileen. "It's been so lonely and stupid eyes and paws in one's back and limbs. Please do let us have a party."

So Selwyn went to the telephone and presently returned, saying that Boots was overwhelmed and would be present at the festivities, and Drina, enraptured, ordered flowers to be brought from the dining room and a large table set for four, with particular pomp and circumstance.

Mr. Archibald Lansing arrived very promptly, a short, stocky young man of clean and powerful build, with dark, keen eyes always alert and humorous lips over on the edge of laughter under his dark mustache.

His manner with Drina was always delightful, a mixture of self-repressed idleness and badly naïve belief in a thorough understanding between them to exclude Selwyn from their company.

"This Selwyn fellow here?" he exclaimed. "I warned him over the phone we'd not tolerate him, Drina. I explained to him very carefully that you and I were dining together in strictest privacy."

"He begged so hard," said Eileen. "Will somebody place an extra pillow for Drina?"

They seized the same pillow fiercely, confronting each other; missinero appeared imminent.

"Two pillows," said Drina sweetly, and extermination was averted. The child laughed happily, covering one of Boots' hands with both of hers.

"So you've left the service, Mr. Lansing?" began Eileen, lying back and looking smilingly at Boots.

"And to Miss Eroll. Seven millionaires ran into my quarters and chased me out and down Broadway into the offices of the Westchester Air Line company. Then these seven merciless millionaires in black and bound and gagged me, stuffed my pockets full of salary and forced me to type-write a fearful and secret oath to serve them for five long, weary years. That's a sample of how the wealthy grind the bones of the poor, isn't it, Drina?"

The child slipped her hand from his, smiling uncertainly.

"You don't mean all that, do you?"

"Indeed, I do, sweetheart."

"Are you not a soldier lieutenant any more, then?" she inquired, horribly disappointed.

"Only a private in the workman's battalion, Drina."

"I don't care," retorted the child obstinately. "I like you just as much."

"How tall you're growing, Drina," remarked Selwyn.

"Probably the early spring weather," added Boots. "You're twelve, aren't you?"

You Need Not Diet

When you have Dyspepsia, Indigestion, or any form of Stomach Trouble, take Kodol and you can then eat what you want for Kodol will digest it.

Starvation seems a strange remedy for any disease. Yet, starvation by rigorous diet, was once generally resorted to, in case of indigestion or other stomach trouble. Even yet, it is sometimes tried.

Such a remedy is worse than useless. Every day of life consumes a portion of the tissue of the human body. The food we eat serves to repair this waste, and you can't build up the system by withholding material for the purpose.

If the stomach is in such condition, that it cannot furnish it, the task must be performed without the stomach's assistance. Kodol is the only preparation which accomplishes this. There are others which act on certain kinds of food, but Kodol is the only one, which digests them all, as the stomach digests them.

Man is so constituted that he needs a variety of food to reduce the variety, always produces bad results.

In ninety-nine cases in a hundred, indigestion is due to lack of some of the elements, which constitute the natural digestive juices, usually to the absence of hydrochloric acid for the stomach.

It is by the action of these juices, that food is reduced to a form in which it can be transformed into living tissue. With any of them lacking, it is easy to see, that the process of digestion cannot be perfectly performed.

With the single exception of Kodol, all preparations for the relief of indigestion, lack certain of these elements. Consequently, they cannot digest all classes of food.

Kodol contains them all. It will digest anything that the healthy stomach can digest. It is Nature's own cure.

Don't resort to stimulating tonics. Such drugs simply urge the already overworked stomach, to renewed exertions.

It is like spurring a tired horse. For a moment he responds. Then outraged Nature, reasserts itself and he falls in a heap. Sedatives are equally ineffective. At first they deaden pain, but afterwards comes the reaction, and known suffering than before.

What the stomach needs, is rest. To obtain it, a substitute must be found for the natural digestive juices. Kodol is the only substitute, which accomplishes Nature's results, by Nature's own methods.

It gives the stomach perfect rest, by digesting what you eat. No dieting is necessary. Eat all the good food you want, build up the system and at the same time, relieve the stomach from all responsibility. The rest will restore it to its natural condition and you'll get a complete cure. This is the only rational and common sense method of aiding Nature.

A Bold Step.

To overcome the well-grounded and reasonable objections of the more intelligent to the use of secret, medicinal compounds, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., some time ago, decided to make a bold departure from the usual course pursued by the makers of "pocahontas" for domestic use, and so has published broadcast and openly to the whole world, a full and complete list of all the ingredients entering into the composition of his widely celebrated medicines. Thus he has taken his numerous patrons and patients into his full confidence. This too he has removed his medicines from among secret nostrums of doubtful merit, and made them remedies of known composition.

For this bold step Dr. Pierce has shown himself a true friend to the human race, and there is no person so bold as to object to the bold step.

Not only does the wrapper of every bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous medicine for weak stomach, torpid liver or biliousness and all catarrhal diseases wherever located, have printed upon it, in plain English, a full and complete list of the ingredients comprising it, but a small book has been compiled from numerous standard medical works, of all the different schools of practice, containing numerous extracts from the writings of leading practitioners of medicine, endorsing in the strongest possible terms, not only the ingredients contained in Dr. Pierce's medicines, but the fact that they will be mailed free to any one sending address on postal card or by letter, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and requesting the same. From this little book it will be learned that Dr. Pierce's medicines contain no alcohol, narcotics, mineral acids or other poisonous or injurious agents, and that they are made from native medicinal roots of great value, also that some of the most valuable ingredients contained in Dr. Pierce's medicines are the same as those used by the Indians for similar ailments affecting their system. In fact, the most valuable medicinal plants entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's medicines are known to the Indians as "sacred herbs." Our knowledge of the use of not a few of our most valuable native medicinal plants was gained from the Indians. As made up by improved and exact processes, the "Favorite Prescription" is a most efficient remedy for regulating all the womanly functions, correcting displacements, relieving painful periods, toning up the system and bringing about a perfect state of health. Sold by all druggists in medicine.

Men Arrested at Suggestion of C. C. MacLean Were Not Taken to Coates' Store

Two men giving their names as John Blake and Fred Mohr were arrested in the Railroad hotel bar-room last evening on complaint of C. C. MacLean. The man, Blake, it appears, accused Mr. MacLean near Trinity church and asked him where the C. & N. W. depot was. When the latter answered his question and started to move on, Blake called out: "Hold on there, where's the passenger depot?" The reply to this question was followed by another one equally idle and as the fellow's tone was becoming impatient, Mr. MacLean told him to move on unless he wanted trouble. After indulging in some insolent remarks, Blake and his companion started down the track. Mr. MacLean watched them and when they entered the hotel, informed the police. Officer Morrissey took the pair to the police station and on advice of the complainant, Mohr was immediately released inasmuch as he had taken no part in the conversation. Blake was kept in the lock-up overnight and released today.

Fined for Drunkenness
John Carey pleaded guilty to a charge of drunkenness in municipal court this morning and paid a fine and costs amounting to $2.10. A similar fine was levied against Henry Douglas but sentence was subsequently suspended during good behavior. Several citizens with a musical bent, including Joe Schultz and John Nelson, were found in a state of intoxication this morning and placed behind the bars. The chorus from the cage below punctuated the court proceedings at frequent intervals.

"Sleepers" Traded Shoes
One of the "sleepers" at the lock-up found that his shoes pinched his feet and while Mike Collier was still wrapt in slumber, helped himself to the Collier footwear, leaving in its place a pair of Oxford's several sizes too small for him. The one-sided trade was not discovered by Mr. Collier until after the company of "sleepers" had been released.

Y. M. C. A. TALK OF BUILDING AT YARDS

State Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. Confers with Local Secretary on the Project.

F. E. Anderson, state secretary of the Y. M. C. A. was in the city yesterday to investigate the demand for the erection of a Y. M. C. A. building at the new North-Western sorting yards. With Mr. Kline, the local secretary, Mr. Anderson went to the yards and discussed the plan with E. H. Zieker, foreman of the roundhouse, and others. The association wants the railroad to construct the building, when they will furnish it and run it. This plan will be presented to the officials of the road. As it is now the men working in the yards and coming in on late trains have the long ride up town before getting to bed or having an opportunity to rest. If the new building was put up it would be a great convenience to them.

PRETTY WEDDING AT FOUR O'CLOCK TODAY

Miss Alice Harner and Charles Galbraith Married This Afternoon.

At four o'clock this afternoon at the home of the sister of the bride, Mrs. R. H. Harlow, on Jefferson avenue, Miss Alice Harner, daughter of Robert Harner, and Charles Galbraith were united in marriage by the Rev. R. C. Deussen. The house was prettily decorated for the occasion with potted plants and American beauty roses. After the ceremony a delicious wedding supper was served to the thirty guests. Only the immediate families and a few intimate friends witnessed the ceremony and the bride and groom were unattended. The bride is the youngest daughter of Robert Harner and is well known in Janesville. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Galbraith of this city and now holds a position with Skinner Bros. of Chicago and travels for that firm through Michigan.

The happy couple leave this evening on their wedding trip, after which they will go to Grand Rapids, Mich., where they will make their future home.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Harper of Markesan, Wis., Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Heynolds of Milwaukee, Mr. and Mrs. F. V. Barlow of Delavan, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon of Chicago and John Galbraith of Chicago.

NEW STOCK YARDS HAVE BEEN STARTED

New Yards Are Being Built to Take the Place of the Old Yards on Center Ave. Which Are Being Torn Down.

Plans for the framework of the new stockyards to replace the old stockyards which are being torn out have been put in and work on the framework has begun. The new yards are just south of the ice house, near the North street viaduct.

Cuts of iron were spotted near the platform of the passenger depot, and a building was started. All of the cement curbing is finished but a part has not yet hardened. The work of moving the mud track over will be completed today. The old rails which are being taken out and replaced with new ones on the track between the depot and the Evansville cut-off are being partly used for reinforcing the concrete which is to be laid over the coal bins. These are situated directly under a section of the platform and something solid had to be put in to lay the brick on.

An advertisement exactly this size, with the same border containing only 20 words, in the Gazette for but one day, has resulted in 500 sales.
